1) The entry "yes" against a country's name means its citizens always require a visa to enter Germany.

2) The entry "no" against a country's name means its citizens do not require a visa to enter Germany. Without a visa, however, they may not stay longer than three months every half-year or take up gainful employment requiring a work permit.

Excepted are citizens of European Union member states (marked with "*").

If required, citizens of member states of the European Economic Area and some other countries may obtain a residence and/or work permit after entry (these countries are marked with "").

Provided that they do not intend to enter into employment, citizens of certain states may obtain any residence permit required after entry (these countries are marked with "").

"*": Holders of SAR passports (Hong Kong Special Administrative Region passports) are exempt from the visa requirement.

"": British Nationals (Overseas) with corresponding BN(O) passports are also exempt from the visa requirement.
